2. learn the importance of goal setting in relation to living a meaningful life; and
3. foster positive thinking and learn how to face adversity.

◆ Introduction

This well-being programme is developed based on the ideas in positive psychology, and positive youth development. This programme will allow our gifted students to develop positive thinking, empathy, and character strengths, embracing the past, present, and future with positivity and courage. From the programme, our gifted students will also learn how to make use of empathy and character strengths to improve their communication skills with others and build better social relationships. The programme also aims to equip our gifted students with a better preparation whether they may be coping with stress and anxiety in daily life or encountering unexpected failures and setbacks: by helping them to learn strategies that promote their resilience, maintain a positive and optimistic mindset, enhance positive emotions while reducing negative emotions, look forward to their future, continue to pursue their goals and well-being, and create a meaningful life.
