◆ Gifted Programme Introduction

Plastic Free Seas is a Hong Kong-based environmental charity focused on changing the way we all view and use plastics in society today, through education and action campaigns. Plastic pollution is a global crisis—every year, 8 million tonnes of plastic, much of it single-use packaging, ends up in our oceans, affecting communities worldwide. In Hong Kong, with overflowing landfills and an unstable recycling industry, reducing single-use plastic is more urgent than ever. This talk will explore the causes and consequences of plastic marine pollution and highlight the importance of consumer choices in creating real change.
