Intended Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of a whole series of the training programme, parents should be able to:

1. Gain a better understanding of the gifted attributes and needs of their gifted children;
2. Foster a positive relationship with their children using appropriate methods;
3. Implement the most effective (hands-on) parenting techniques to facilitate the healthy growth of children; and
4. Build a network with parents of gifted children and support each other.

◆ Introduction

Parental engagement is important in children's growth and development. Positive effects are often observed when parents become more supportive at home and the school levels. The purpose of this series of workshops is to help parents understand giftedness and equip them with the knowledge and skills to provide proper guidance and support to their gifted children. During each session, the workshop facilitator will explore practical ways of parenting, and effective communication skills that could be developed or promoted for themselves and their children.
